

Travel and Tourism

North - Revolution Brewing

A fairly recent bar, Revolution Brewing opened up in Logan Square in Logan Square in 2010, but has quickly become a hot spot and popular place for Chicagoans to meet. They specialize in brewery and serving authentic beers for customers in the city. It also serves beers to 8 states in the US. New Years is coming soon, and Revolution Brewing is a great spot in the north side to celebrate the occasion. They have a wide variety of styles and seasonal options.

Credit: Revolution Brewing

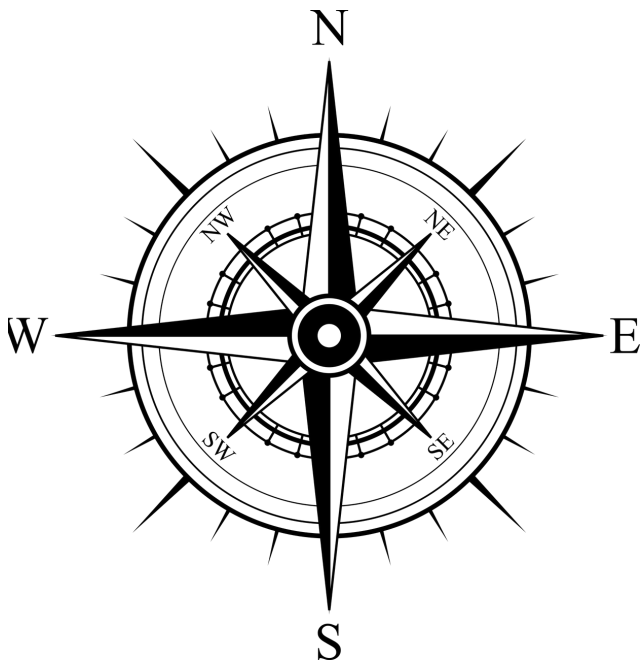

West Dulcelandia

“Dulcelandia” or “Candyland” in English is a candy shop in Little Village. It serves over 1,000 traditional Mexican candies like piñatas, chocolates, and lollipops. They feature a variety of candies from sweet to spicy and offer seasonal treats for events like Halloween and Christmas. The location also provides party supplies and equipment. It is a place to consider for people planning to spend the holiday with children or to simply explore the culture of Mexican treats.

Credit: Jaclyn Elizabeth Rivas

Taste The Windy City

Explore 4 cuisine corners of Chicago for the holidays

Credit: Martha Williams

East The Gage

The Gage is located in the Loop, downtown Chicago. This restaurant/bar is located near famous locations that surround Chicago like the Art Institute of Chicago and the Crown Fountain in Millennium Park. This location has gained its fame by mixing European flavors and incorporating the American style in food. This is a great spot to stop by if visiting Chicago's attractions for the holidays and are craving American style dishes.

Credit: Amelia Ko

South - Plein Air Cafe

Plein Air Café is located in the Hyde Park neighborhood. This café is in a perfect location for students as it is near the University of Chicago campus. Taking its inspiration from French culture, Plein Air provides a relaxing atmosphere. In addition to a variety of coffee options, Plein Air offers various artisanal roasters and changes the beans seasonally. Plein Air is great to get warm drinks and get through the Chicago weather during the holidays.